Liaison National Bank Overview

Increasing capacity, improving care

Supporting NHS organisations to strengthen mental health care...

The Liaison National Bank connects recently retired and peri-retired mental health professionals, with NHS providers looking to increase capacity and improve patient care.

Latest estimates put the mental health waiting list at 1.2m people, our first phase of care will support this sector. The Bank supports healthcare professionals to continue their service, leveraging their tenured experience to enhance clinical capacity and patient care.

By establishing a flexible, experienced workforce, we're paving the way for healthcare providers to access the skills they need - exactly when and where they're needed most. This approach not only strengthens care delivery, but also provides retired and peri-retired professionals a meaningful opportunity to continue making an impact to benefit patients.

We are really excited to launch the Liaison National Bank for the Mental Health sector in the coming months. It will help create additional capacity through the use of retired clinicians, and as our first step on this programme of work, we are seeking expressions of interest from both providers and clinicians.

Our Story

2023 - 2024

The BMA released data showing a growing crisis in NHS mental health services: over 5 million referrals were recorded in 2023 (up 33% from 2019), with a waiting list of 1.2 million people due to under-resourcing.

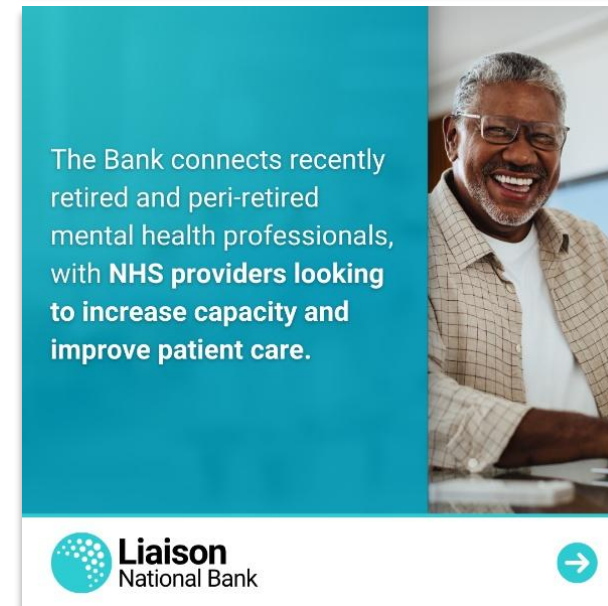

Early 2024

After the successful launch of our NHS Emeritus bank, connecting retired clinicians with NHS acute care to help reduce waiting lists, we began exploring a similar initiative for mental health services.

And so, the Liaison National Bank was created...

Now, we're developing a mental health bank to mobilise retiring mental health clinicians, aiming to expand capacity, and bring relief to patients and providers across the NHS....

Expressions of interest are now open, and we aim to go live early 2025

Why Register as a Provider?

According to recent data, nearly one in seven full-time equivalents planned mental health roles in England are vacant...so how can we help?

Benefits of joining the national bank?

Our Technology

Whilst recognising that much activity will be in-person, Liaison National Bank aims to make optimal use of technology, enabling clinicians to also deliver care remotely, when clinically appropriate.

TempRE is Liaison Workforce's temporary workforce management platform that Liaison National Bank uses to match clinicians to clinical assignments, for booking and timesheet submission and authorisation.

Providers can add any vacancies requiring additional capacity to TempRE. Providers will receive an alert for any available workers that match their requirements and can review associated profiles and compliance documents. They can then book the clinician of their choice. Providers are responsible for signing off compliance documentation, providing local induction and arranging delivery of clinical activity.

Our award-winning support team is here to assist you throughout the streamlined onboarding process.

Register Your Interest

We are excited to announce that expressions of interest will open from November 2024. Our goal is to officially launch the initiative in early 2025, and we're committed to making the onboarding process as smooth as possible for all participants.

Book a quick run through, it only takes 30 minutes, and we can show you the booking process done via the TempRE system.
